Tutoring Experience

For the past seven years, I've worked closely with students preparing for IB History and A-Level History, offering tailored support to help them succeed in their exams. My students have consistently achieved excellent results, with many gaining entry to top universities. I focus on breaking down complex historical topics to make them more accessible to learners.

In addition to my work in IB and A-Level, I have tutored GCSE History students, helping them to build strong foundations in the subject. Whether preparing for an exam or diving deeper into historical analysis, I ensure that my students develop a thorough understanding of the material.
